Welcome Speech & Networking

09:30-10:00, Wednesday, February 22, 2017

Anson I & II, 2nd Floor, M Hotel Singapore

Dear Presenters and Participants,

It is an honor to be your local host and warmly welcome all of you to the Joint Conferences of TICEAS, ICBENS, ICEASS & APCBM organized by Higher Education Forum (HEF). Singapore is a multi-cultural city that thrives on diversity and I hope to mirror the embracement of diverse expertise and portfolios for an exciting and engaging intellectual exchange at the conference. With interdisciplinary dialog being a key feature of HEF-organized conferences, there is much to be gained from the wealth of insights beyond our domain field, ranging from varied disciplines such as engineering, applied and social sciences, business, education and more. Many past HEF conference presenters and participants have deeply valued the opportunity for interactions and learning with academics, researchers, practitioners, and students from diverse fields as we see our work in relation to others. Beyond intellectual engagement and collaboration, there is also much to be experienced as we enjoy learning about new cultures from our local and international delegates. Therefore I look forward to welcoming you to HEF conferences, as we draw together relations between our diverse disciplines and diverse cultures, paving the way for an enriching and enjoyable learning journey for each of us. As Leonard Bernstein once said, initiation into the love of learning is learning to know something by its relation to something else. See you in Singapore!

Yours sincerely

Dr Azilawati Jamaludin

General Information for Participants

■ Registration

The registration desk will be situated on the 2nd floor at M Hotel Singapore during the following time:

08:30-17:30, Wednesday, February 22, 2017

08:30-17:00, Thursday, February 23, 2017

■ Organizer

Higher Education Forum (HEF)

Tel: + 886 2 2740 1498 | www.prohef.org

■ A Polite Request to All Participants

Participants are requested to arrive in a timely fashion for all addresses. Presenters are reminded that the time slots should be divided fairly and equally by the number of presentations, and that they should not overrun. The session chair is asked to assume this timekeeping role and to summarize key issues in each topic.

■ Certificate

Certificate of Presentation or Certificate of Attendance

A certificate of attendance includes participant's name and affiliation, certifying the participation in the conference. A certificate of presentation indicates a presenter's name, affiliation and the paper title that is presented in the scheduled session.

Certificate Distribution

Oral presenters will receive a certificate of presentation from the session chair after their presentations or at the end of the session. Poster presenters will receive a certificate of presentation from the conference staff at the end of their poster session.

The certificate of presentation will not be issued, either at or after the conference, to authors whose papers are registered but not presented. Instead, the certificate of attendance will be provided after the conference.

■ Preparation for Oral Presentations

All presentation rooms are equipped with a screen, an LCD projector, and a laptop computer installed with Microsoft PowerPoint. You will be able to insert your USB flash drive into the computer and double check your file in PowerPoint. We recommend you to bring two copies of the file in case that one fails. You may also connect your own laptop to the provided projector; however please ensure you have the requisite connector.

Preparation for Poster Presentation

Materials Provided by the Conference Organizer:

1. X-frame display & base fabric canvases (60cm×160cm)
2. Adhesive tapes or binder clips

Materials Prepared by the Presenters:

3. Home-made poster(s)
4. Material: not limited, can be posted on the canvases
5. Recommended poster size: 60cm*120cm

A 60cm*160cm poster illustrates the research findings.	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Wider than 60cm (left) 2. Copy of PowerPoint slides in A4 papers (right)

Topic: Identification of Influencing Factors to the Deoxygenation Rate of Rivers Located in the Urban Area

Yonik Meilawati Yustiani
Department of Environmental Engineering
Pasundan University
Indonesia

Abstract:

Deoxygenation process is an important process in the effort to do the self purification of the river, which degrade organic pollutants types of bio-degradable so that the river came be purified. The rate of deoxygenation process will affect the self purification rate. Research on the deoxygenation very rarely done in the polluted urban rivers. Deoxygenation rate value obtained from previous research showed that the value of urban river deoxygenation rate is relatively low. The low value of the rate of deoxygenation led to the difficulty in rivers to purify themselves. Pollutants inhibiting the process can be stopped at the source, and self purification process can be improved in these water bodies. The cause of the low rate is necessary to be identified in detail to improve the quality conditions of the river. Therefore, this research needs to be conducted so that the parameters inhibiting self purification process can be overcome and that the water quality can be improved. The parameters examined through the sampling process water streams represented by Cikapundung and Citarum Rivers, located in Bandung area, Indonesia, as urban rivers. The water samples were analyzed to obtain the content of physics, chemistry, and biology parameters. The rate of deoxygenation also simulated in the laboratory using the method of calculation of daily dissolved oxygen and methods of Thomas' Slope. Biochemical test was performed to identify the content of microorganisms decomposers contained in the river water. Results of laboratory analysis and simulation will be processed to obtain a dominant parameter influencers deoxygenation rate in urban rivers. Processing the results will show the relationship between each parameter on the rate of deoxygenation.

Topic: Increasing Information Facilitates Codified Law: Why Statutes Have Supplanted the Common Law

David C. Donald

Professor

Faculty of Law

The Chinese University of Hong Kong

Abstract:

North (1990) draws a distinction between institutions that are ‘created’, like a constitution or other written rules, and institutions that ‘simply evolve,’ like the common law. Eisenberg (1988), using a jurisprudential rather than institutional framework, explains in detail how informal institutions (‘social propositions’) are processed into law through litigation. Deakin and Carvalho (2010) have shown how legal concepts carry information analogous to the instructions of genetic code and how the interaction of enduring concepts with changing circumstances triggers the consistency in variation of legal evolution. Deakin (2015) further argues that disequilibria in the evolution of common law can necessitate legislative intervention, so that both the common and civil law systems are hybrids requiring both statute and case law.

Building on the above theoretical foundation, this paper offers an information-based theory of the changing balance between case and statutory law in common law systems. Growing amounts of real-time information about disputes, solutions and disequilibria increasingly allow lawmakers to self-reflectively engage in the ‘second-order observation’ (Luhmann, 1993) necessary to form the general and abstract rules composing statutes. Courts can (with a minimal framework of ‘writs’ and ‘stare decisis’) create law spontaneously despite sparse information. Evidence of this can be found in pre-Imperial Great Britain and the 19th century United States. In environments where information rapidly accumulates, ‘second order observation’ of law expands, accelerating the production cycle from informal institution to abstract statutory rule. Case law remains important (increasingly so in civil law jurisdictions) because constant social and technological change rapidly render legislation incomplete or obsolete. However, there is no reason to think increased information flows will trigger endless rapid change. Therefore, it is likely that increasing information about problems, solutions and disequilibria will continue to diminish the importance of case law for processing informal constraints into the formal institutions of law.

Brief Introduction of Prof. David C. Donald

David C. Donald is a Professor in the Law Faculty of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. David previously taught at the Institute for Law and Finance of the University of Frankfurt, Germany and worked as a commercial lawyer in the US and Europe. His publications include A Financial Centre for Two Empires: Hong Kong's Corporate, Securities and Tax Laws in its Transition from Britain to China (Cambridge, 2014), The Hong Kong Stock and Futures Exchanges – Law and Microstructure (Sweet & Maxwell 2012), and (with Andreas Cahn), Comparative Company Law: Texts and Cases on the Laws Governing Corporations in Germany, the UK and the USA (Cambridge 2010). He is participating with scholars from other universities on a Hong Kong Research Grants Council funded project, “Enhancing the Future of Hong Kong as a Leading International Financial Centre.” David is currently a member of Hong Kong's Standing Committee for Company Law Reform and its Financial Policy Research Committee, as well as a member of the Hong Kong Institute of Chartered Secretaries Academic Advisory Panel. He is also a member of the Higher Education Forum Core Committee.e.
