

Lecture Notes for Mathematical Physics I

Shang-Yung Wang

Tamkang University

Mathematical Physics I is the first of a two-course sequence required for sophomore physics majors. It introduces some of the basic mathematical techniques frequently used in the analysis of a wide variety of physical problems. Topics include ordinary differential equations, Laplace transform, Fourier transform, and Fourier series.

January 2019